

November 2023 Newsletter

Hello everyone, and welcome to the Steppes November newsletter

We had so many lovely things to do in October, including a trip from zoo lab with their wonderful animals, and a really fun day out with the Willow Boat Trust on the sharpness canal....So many smiles and wonderful scenery. Our McMillan cake morning was a roaring success with absolutely gorgeous cakes, so a big thank you to everybody who baked like mad for that special event!

We had yet another trip to Piano club at the Tetbury Goods Shed, the Garden Club in Dursley, as well as our popular boat trips on the Stroudwater, canal. The Stroudwater boat trips will be put on hold now through the winter months, but we hope to join Boatmobility yet again in the spring of 2024, and a big thanks for all the wonderful trips we had through the summer months. Never fear, however, as there will be plenty of interesting, indoor trips to enjoy throughout the winter months. Finally, we cannot talk about October without mentioning our fantastic Halloween day, which went off with a bang, filled with fun and games and great food.

In November we have another fun packed schedule for you all. Early on in the month, on Wednesday the 8th, Emma Taylor will be coming, who is a wonderful artist from Bath, and she will be running a lovely art workshop for anybody who is interested. On the 21st Annie Martin is returning to sing us some of her favourite songs and get our feet tapping. Then on the 24th not only will we have our usual quiz, but in the evening we will be running a Christmas Noel where we will be selling all sorts of Christmas fayre to raise money for charity. For the Francophiles amongst us, as requested, we are going to have French day towards the end of the month on the 28th, Norma will be coming with her accordion to play us some wonderful French music, and I'm sure we will have some fantastic French cuisine to look forward to. This will be topped off with the final visit to Piano club for this year on the 29th, so those of you who love classical music let me know if you'd like to come.

Looks like we're nicely set up for yet, another enjoyable month together

Best wishes from Karen and all the staff at The Steppes 😊
